Automated Alarm Services

SPC proudly announces the launching of Automated Alarm Services (AAS) in the Lebanese market

Since its establishment, SPC has been the leading pioneer among its peers, providing security services for homes, businesses and institutions. The only security company to have acquired 3 ISO certifications, we are now the first to introduce AAS in Lebanon at a time where safety and security are a growing concern.

When the Alarm system is armed, you are not alone

‘Your safety is our business

Why subscribe?

The severity of the Lebanese economic crisis and the depreciation in the national currency has led to a drastic increase in crime rate, and according to reports based on official records by the Internal Security Forces, where the increase in homicide acts reached 82.2% in May 2020 in comparison with 2019, and 58.6% increase in car theft and an increase of 150% in burglaries. For all those reasons, and since we, at SPC, consider the safety of our compatriots is our main purpose, we created a special unit managed by the most competent and well trained officers to be at your side.

‘Sleep well, we are watching

How does it work?

Our automated alarm systems send signal alerts to our control station in case of a threatening situation such as fire, the presence of carbon monoxide, flood, or when there is an intruder trying to enter your premises, through sensors that are installed after a comprehensive site survey. Once the Alarm is armed, and in case of any incident, the signal reaches our control station and the operator immediately identifies and locates the client on the GPS monitor. After contacting the client, the Quick Response Team is deployed to the site while simultaneously coordinating with the proper authorities.

‘Your safety is one subscription away
